A Biosphere Reserve and UNESCO World Heritage Site, Glacier Bay National Park protects a unique ecosystem of plants and animals living in concert with an ever-changing glacial landscape. How does it feel when a monumental chunk of ice splits off a glacier and crashes into the sea? The sound is like thunder. The impact shoots water hundreds of feet into the air. You hold your breath as you catch the moment on film. Then you wait for it all to happen again. And it does. Glacier Bay has more actively calving tidewater glaciers than any place else in the world.

(B, L, D)

Saturday 26 May – Sitka

Sitka was the home to the Kiksadi Clan of the Tlingit people for centuries prior to the 18th-century arrival of the Russians, who, under the direction of territorial governor Alexander Baranof, coveted the Sitka site for its beauty, mild climate, and economic potential. Today Sitka is known for its beautiful setting and some of Southeast Alaska's most famous landmarks: the onion-dome St. Michael's cathedral; the Alaska Raptor Centre, where you can come up close to ailing and recovering birds of prey; and Sitka National Historical Park, where you can see some of the oldest and most skilfully carved totem poles in the state.
